Wiley Partners with Association of Health Care Journalists (AHCJ) to Provide Member Access to Health Science Research

Release Date:
Thursday, January 18, 2018 4:29 pm EST

Terms:
All Corporate News, The Association of Health Care Journalists

Dateline City:
Hoboken, NJ

Contacts:
Dawn Peters (US), Wiley P: +1 781-388-8408 scienceenewsroom@wiley.com Follow us on Twitter @WileyNews Cynthia Craft, AHCJ P: +1 573-884-8103 cynthia@healthjournalism.org Follow us on Twitter @AHCJ

HOBOKEN, N.J. and COLUMBIA, Mo. — Jan 18, 2018 — The Association of Health Care Journalists (AHCJ) has enhanced its partnership with global research and learning company, John Wiley and Sons Inc., (NYSE:JW-A) (NYSE:JW-B) to provide members with access to the full collection of journals published on Wiley Online Library.

HOBOKEN, N.J. and COLUMBIA, Mo. — Jan 18, 2018 — The Association of Health Care Journalists (AHCJ) has enhanced its partnership with global research and learning company, John Wiley and Sons Inc., (NYSE:JW-A) (NYSE:JW-B) to provide members with access to the full collection of journals published on Wiley Online Library. AHCJ members can read 6 million articles from more than 1,500 journals including Cochrane Library, Cancer, the Journal of the American Heart Association, and more.

“It’s important that journalists covering medical advances and health issues have access to peer-reviewed research to support their news stories,” said AHCJ Executive Director, Len Bruzzese. “Wiley publishes on behalf of many of the world’s leading organizations dedicated to advancing health science.”

Wiley Online Library hosts the world’s broadest and deepest multidisciplinary collection of online resources covering life, health and physical sciences, social science, and the humanities. It delivers integrated journal access with nearly 400 health science titles in more than 30 subject areas including:

- Allergy & Clinical Immunology
- Anaesthesia & Pain Management
- Cardiovascular Disease
- Cellular & Molecular Medicine
- Dermatology
- Evidence Based Medicine
- Gastroenterology & Hepatology
- Geriatric Medicine
- Hematology
- Infectious Disease &
- Neurology
- Obstetrics & Gynecology
- Oncology & Radiotherapy
- Ophthalmology & Optometry
- Pediatrics
- Pharmacology & Pharmaceutical Medicine
"Health journalism drives awareness of medical advances, brings attention to global health concerns, and educates us on best practices that affect our health," said Judy Verses, Executive Vice President of Research for Wiley. "Our partnership with AHCJ ensures journalists have access to evidence-based research and health experts as sources for their news reports."

Access to Wiley Online Library is a benefit to active AHCJ members. Please contact Tina England to activate your benefit or renew your membership.

Additional Information

About the Association of Health Care Journalists (AHCJ)

The Association of Health Care Journalists, Inc. is an independent, nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing public understanding of health care issues. Its mission is to improve the quality, accuracy and visibility of health care reporting, writing and editing. AHCJ is classified as a 501(c)(6), a nonprofit professional trade association. For more information, please visit https://healthjournalism.org/.

About Wiley

Wiley, a global research and learning company, helps people and organizations develop the skills and knowledge they need to succeed. Our online scientific, technical, medical, and scholarly journals, combined with our digital learning, assessment and certification solutions help universities, learned societies, businesses, governments, and individuals increase the academic and professional impact of their work. For more than 210 years, we have delivered consistent performance to our stakeholders. The company's website can be accessed at www.wiley.com.

Language:

English