HOBOKEN, N.J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--John Wiley and Sons, Inc. (NYSE:JWA)(NYSE:JWB) and OhioLINK, a consortium of 91 Ohio college and university libraries, today announced a new partnership that will reduce the cost of textbooks for students in the state of Ohio. This collaboration around Inclusive Access is part of Affordable Learning Ohio and will provide participating students with digital course materials on the first day of class, at savings upward of 40%. The program will increase the affordability of course materials for 450,000 students across the state of Ohio.

Gwen Evans, Executive Director of OhioLINK commented, “Wiley was integral to the development of this program based on the long relationship between OhioLINK and Wiley and our initial series of exploratory discussions. Both OhioLINK and Wiley are committed to driving down the costs of course materials and providing easy access that will make a difference for students. We are excited to expand our 20-year partnership with Wiley to include textbook materials at significantly reduced rates for the 450,000 students in the state of Ohio.”

The Inclusive Access program provides students with instant access to WileyPLUS courseware and eTextbooks through their learning management system. The program will provide day-one access to the required course materials with students benefiting from the 40% saving. To meet this commitment to Ohio students, Wiley worked closely with OhioLINK and key partners of digital materials to fulfill WileyPLUS courseware and eTextbooks online and through campus retailers.

“Wiley is proud to partner with OhioLINK to develop solutions that reduce the cost of course materials for Ohio’s college students,” said Joel Hollenbeck, VP of Sales, Wiley. “This partnership emphasizes Wiley’s commitment to improving access, affordability and outcomes for every student and to help them achieve their educational goals. My Wiley colleagues and I are thrilled to be a part of this innovative program.”
