
Release Date:
Wednesday, October 24, 2018 3:17 pm EDT

Terms:
Business and Finance

Dateline City:
Hoboken, NJ

Contacts:
Amy Laudicano, Publicity Manager alaudicano@wiley.com

#1 Executive Coach Marshall Goldsmith, Presidential Medal of Freedom Recipient Frances Hesselbein and Award-Winning Editor Sarah McArthur Join Forces on New Leadership Book

Work Is Love Made Visible is Available Now

“Work Is Love Made Visible is the latest creation from three of my heroes, whose work and leadership I admire and have benefitted from so much...This book will enable you to explore what is important to you and then do that at work and in your actions. When you do, you will find that your love is visible to you and to others, and you will be well on your way to being a leader who is helping us all work together for the greater good!”

- Alan Mulally, former Chief Executive Officer of Boeing and Ford

Work is Love Made Visible offers insight and commentary from distinguished management gurus, contemporary entrepreneurs and dynamic corporate leaders as they tackle one of life’s most difficult treasure hunts: finding purpose. This book poses profound questions to individuals who have followed their purpose and succeeded on a global scale. The book sheds light on the experiences, examples, inspiration, and motivation of leaders from the public, private and social sectors through personal essays. Over 25 contributing authors detail how they tackle the universal struggle with individual purpose and meaning; how personal thought patterns contribute to real-world action; how leaders turn challenges into opportunities; and how these successful professionals arrive at their life’s purpose, and what they sacrificed to get there.

According to Jim Collins, author of Good to Great, “Frances Hesselbein is one of the truly great role-model leaders of our time. She inspires all who know her and her work to commit to leading in a spirit of noble purpose, guided by her life’s philosophy: To Serve is to Live!”

Work is Love Made Visible is structured into five parts based on the leadership philosophy of Frances Hesselbein and aims to illuminate the inherent gifts of individuals so that readers may use their own talents to the advancement and healthy functioning of the global society.

In addition to contributions from leadership experts Dave Ulrich, Whitney Johnson, Patrick Lencioni, David Allen, Rita McGrath, Mark Thompson, Alex Osterwalder, and Liz Wiseman, the book features new thoughts from some of today’s most influential leaders in business (World Bank Group, Inc. and Best Buy), academia (Rice University and University of Pennsylvania), social enterprise (Doctors Without Borders and Junior Achievement Worldwide) and the military.

“Work Is Love Made Visible is a genuinely moving exploration of the meaning and significance of work,” says Jim Kouzes, coauthor of the best-selling The Leadership Challenge. “It’s a book you ponder over, sit with for a while, and talk about with friends and family.”

About the Authors

Frances Hesselbein is the author of three autobiographies and the co-editor of 30 books in 29 languages. Frances Hesselbein is considered one of the country’s greatest leaders. She served as the CEO of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and was recognized as a Presidential Medal of Freedom recipient for her work as “a pioneer for women, volunteerism, diversity and opportunity.” Hesselbein is the chairman of The Frances Hesselbein Leadership Forum at the University of Pittsburgh’s Graduate School of Public and International Affairs.

Marshall Goldsmith is the only two-time winner of the Thinkers 50 Award for #1 Leadership Thinker in the World. He is author/editor of 39 books, including three New York Times bestsellers that have sold over 2.5 million copies and been listed bestseller in 12 countries.

Sarah McArthur is COO of Marshall Goldsmith Inc. and founder of *sdedit, a boutique writing and editing firm. Co-author/editor of numerous books, including Coaching for Leadership, her fields of expertise are management, leadership, and executive and business coaching.

Language: English